

I'm doing an unplugged event unlike any other event I do. Some background...

As you may know, my childhood was challenging and lonely and I found it difficult to “fit in.” I always felt that I was somehow different from others and that I was misunderstood. I didn't know why this was happening, but what I did know deep in my heart, perhaps not until many years later though, is that I was here for a higher, divine purpose, even if I was unsure what it was or how to fulfill it. What I didn't realize is that I'm a lightworker.

What is a lightworker? In a broad sense, it is any spiritual being who in their heart is committed to helping others and who is here for the purpose of spreading love and bringing light to dark places. Certain situations act as a catalyst for their own awakening to what it is they came to earth to do. Lightworkers radiate a powerful presence and through their “beingness” and compelling story, they become a catalyst for others.

Are you a lightworker? If you feel a sense of boredom or misalignment with your current situation and feel an urge to help humanity now, then yes, there's a chance that you are a lightworker. If you are intuitive and feel drawn to spirituality and if you've ever been told by others that you are too sensitive, if you've always felt different from others, if you know that you are here for a higher purpose, then yes, you likely are one.

As you know, I've discovered and stepped in to my bigger purpose of being of service to others (helping people be their most authentic selves and play a bigger game in service to others) and I'm living into it daily. This has invited in a deep sense of meaning and fulfillment (and abundance) in my life. I want the same for you.

Maybe you too know that you have something more to do with this life than simply exist, and you feel a greater calling awaiting you; perhaps you had a difficult childhood too or perhaps you too didn't fit in with the majority of people. Maybe you're someone who's always felt you were here for a sacred purpose and you feel a stirring in your soul to do something about it now or you have a sense of boredom with your existing life or work. If so, then you are probably being called to step into your next level of existence and service.

Last year, I was coming back from the airport after the Mindset Retreat – and I got a very direct download from Source: “Fabienne, you must do a small event specifically for other lightworkers who haven't fully stepped in yet.” I couldn't get it out of my mind; the ideas kept flowing like crazy. So, I answered the call and hosted an “unplugged” 2-day event for heart-centered entrepreneurs, lightworkers and healers who feel called to embrace their purpose here on Earth as a lightworker, in service to others.

It was magical. This 2-day retreat helps you uncover your sacred purpose and step into it.

Right at this very moment there is an awakening happening—a shift in consciousness—all around the planet. Lightworkers are being called upon to help with this shift by shining their light and love in all of the dark corners of the world.

This is an invitation-only event, where folks must apply to attend (you can imagine how sacred this will be, so it must be so.) We'll be selecting only yummy people who are heart-centered and loving, a tribe of folks who are spiritually connected and truly feel pulled to doing good work, and committed to using their unique gifts. It's going to be unplugged. No big stage, no hype. Just lots of heart-centered conversations, sharing, collaborating, getting clarity on how to step in to doing this work and how to make it work within our existing lives and businesses.

We'll address many aspects of what you may be feeling inside already: what exactly is the spiritual shift happening in the world and your place in it, how to really know if you're a lightworker, how to affect this world in a really big way, not feeling qualified or that you don't know enough to do this work, what special training or permission you need, whether you feel brave enough to do the work that you're being called to do, whether you can get paid well for it, dealing with what family and friends will think, how to start the process, any reluctance or fears attached to saying yes, being afraid of rocking the boat of your life, what will happen when you say yes, how to stay open to the guidance, and that's just scratching the surface. And most of all, we'll become a tribe like never before.

This second Awakening Lightworkers event will be nothing like you've ever experienced. It could be 12 people; it could be 50... I'm not sure and it really doesn't matter. The people who are already "contracted" to be there will know it in their gut and will be there. All I know is that the handful of yummy people I've already talked to about this little event have enthusiastically said, "YES! I'm totally there!" and that they wouldn't miss it.

This event is obviously not for everyone, and it's meant to be that way, for all the right reasons... If it speaks to you on a deep level and feels like something you want to experience and need to experience, then we would be delighted to have you on this journey with us:
